LEXARTS HOP

Dear Art Lover,

Welcome to the LEXARTS HOP!

Since 1994, downtown Lexington has come alive and artful as galleries and museums, artists' studios, and other creative spaces have opened their doors on third Fridays. Now happening every other month, HOP is LexArts'—and Lexington's—signature event. We and the 40-plus partner venues you'll find listed in these pages welcome you to our inspired downtown!

HOP began as a way to encourage everyone to look at and buy art—and that is still its mission. Affordable, unique pieces in many media, in every genre are on view at HOP sites. Often you can meet the artists themselves and learn about their work first hand. Collecting need not be mysterious or expensive. You can own beautiful objects on any budget. And discover fascinating friends and fresh ideas as well.

No one has yet to visit every HOP venue on a single Friday night. We don't recommend trying! But we do encourage you to visit as many or as few as you like—and to come back the next time to experience new exhibitions and new sites. This guide will tell you when the sites have regular hours as well.

We're thrilled to welcome McBrayer McGinnis Leslie & Kirkland as our new HOP Sponsor.

With their help, we're able to produce this comprehensive 2018 HOP Guide—and the HOP website and app are receiving upgrades. You can access both at LEXARTS.org.

Happy HOPping!

The LexArts Hop is a self-guided tour of the visual arts in downtown Lexington, KY.

Patrons begin at any location and visit as many or as few participating venues as they would like. Each site presents an exciting new exhibit for each Hop and, thanks to the generosity of many, admission is always free.

While the official Hop hours are 5 - 8 pm, closing times may vary and many of the Supporting Art Venues, particularly the participating restaurants and clubs, remain open throughout the evening.

Gallery Hop is managed by LexArts as a service to the visual arts community in Lexington.

NEW FOR HOP 2018

Mobile App and GalleryHopLex.com

LexArts is pleased to announce the Gallery Hop mobile app which can be accessed from the Hop website. The web-based app features an interactive map with current exhibit information and GPS locating to direct you to venues nearby.

The Hop website also has an emphasis on improved Hop planning opportunities, more social sharing options and improved user interaction. The website also allows venues to update exhibit information on a more timely basis and include information about exhibits that may happen outside of Hop dates. Take time to experience GalleryHopLex.com for images and information on both past and current exhibits.

Hop Informational Kiosks @ ArtsPlace and Downtown Arts Center

Visit ArtsPlace or the Downtown Arts Center to pick up your official HOP Guide and find other essential information and late-breaking exhibit details. Volunteers for the HOP Kiosk are provided through the Lexington Youth Arts Council.

How to Participate

Many venues seek artists to display throughout the season. If you are an artist and would like to connect to a venue to show your work, you may contact them directly using the information in this guide or call or email LexArts to assist you in finding a venue.

If you have a gallery, studio or place of business and would like to join HOP for the 2019 season, contact LexArts at (859) 255-2951 or info@lexarts.org to begin a simple application process.

122 N Upper St
(859) 333-0502
MarjorieGuyon.com
HOURS Mon-Fri 9-5

Layers of history and time are a constant in Marjorie Guyon's work. One of the hallmarks of her work is that imagery at once emerges from, and disappears into what appears to be an ancient surface. Yet, she also seems to be lighting the path of time. It may well be the dynamic between the two impulses that gives her haunting images their appeal — at once ancient and contemporary — a blend of mythology and graffiti.
